Vol. 13 — No. 1 JAN.-MAY, 1964

A BI-MONTHLY COMMUNITY PUBLICATION OF the JEWISH HOSPITAL of St. Louis

216 S. KINGSHIGHWAY, ST. LOUIS, MO. 63110

SHOWN IS THE ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF THE NEW CHARLES AND FLORENCE YALEM RESEARCH BUILDING. CONSTRUCTION IS EXPECTED TO BEGIN IN EARLY 1965.

Research Building to be Constructed With $1,000,000 Charles H. Yalem Gift

Charles H. Yalem, St. Louis financier and philanthropist, is contributing $1,000,000 to the hospital for construction of a seven-story research building to be named the Charles and Florence Yalem Research Building.

A former member of the Research Committee of the board of directors, Mr. Yalem cited the hospital's need for additional research laboratories in announcing his gift. The hospital annually spends in excess of $650,000 for research, with grants from foundations, the federal government and private donors. The inadequacy of present research facilities has forced postponement of a number of projects.

The new Charles and Florence Yalem Research Building will have six of its seven floors devoted to research laboratories. Among the planned research projects are studies of tissue and organ transplants, cardiopulmonary disease, surgery shock, fertility and sterility, diabetes and cancer.

A portion of the ground floor of the new structure will consist of an auditorium with a seating capacity of 250 persons. Construction will begin in early 1965 on a site east of the present hospital building.

Anticipated total cost of the Yalem Research Building is $1,340,000. Mr. Yalem's gift will be supplemented by a $250,000 grant from the National Institutes of Health and the balance from the hospital's recent capital funds drive.

Mr. Yalem has been an active member of the board of directors of the hospital since 1953. He served on the hospital's Research Committee from 1955 to 1959, the Finance and Budget Committee from 1954 to 1959 and 1961 to 1962 and the Resources and Development Committee in 1961. He has also served on various planning committees of the hospital.

Mr. Yalem has previously contributed $200,000 to the hospital in memory of a son, Lt. James Henry Yalem, who was killed in 1944 while serving in World War II in the U.S. Air Force. This gift supported construction of a 42-bed unit for medical patients on the third floor of the hospital's Mark C. Steinberg wing.

Mr. Yalem, president and founder of Aetna Finance Company, a nationwide finance company, has long been active in local civic, religious and cultural affairs. He is a life member of the board of directors of the Jewish Federation of St. Louis and is a member of the board of trustees of the Jewish Community Centers Association and the Jewish Center for Aged. He served as honorary chairman of the Jewish Federation fund drives in 1961, 1962 and 1963. He is an honorary vice-president of Temple Shaare Emeth and a member of the President's Council and the Development Council of St. Louis University.

Mr. Yalem's major gifts in recent years include: $450,000 to Washington University, including the recent purchase and gift of the YMHA-YWHA building, 724 Union Blvd., for the establishment of a human development center; $100,000 to St. Louis University for the establishment of the James Henry Yalem Scientific Computing Center for research; $300,000 to Brandeis University; $200,000 to the Jewish Center for Aged; $200,000 to the Jewish Community Centers Association, and $25,000 to the City Art Museum.

Mr. Yalem is a Fellow of Brandeis University. He was graduated in 1914 from St. Louis University. Mr. and Mrs. Yalem are lifelong residents of St. Louis.

Mrs. David P. Wohl Gives $100,000 Endowment

Mrs. Carlyn H. Wohl, widow of the late David P. Wohl, founder of the Wohl Shoe Company of St. Louis, has announced that the Wohl Foundation is contributing an additional $100,000 to the David P. Wohl (Endowment) Fund of Jewish Hospital. The Fund was established under the terms of Mr. Wohl's will in 1960, with an original grant of $50,000. The income from the additional $100,000 is to be used on behalf of the hospital's needs, without limitations or restrictions, at the discretion of the governing board of directors.

The Foundation also donated $100,000 to the Jewish Hospital Development Fund in 1963. Mrs. Wohl has previously contributed $100,000 to the hospital's 1950 Building Fund with Mr. Wohl, followed in 1956 by $200,600 toward the Capital Fund Drive conducted at that time. This latter sum was used for remodeling the Kingshighway wing of the hospital named in memory of Lt. David P. Wohl, Jr.

Gifts Total $8,500,000

During Mr. Wohl's lifetime, the couple gave $8,500,000 to municipal, charitable and educational institutions through the Wohl Foundation and personal contributions. In addition, Mr. Wohl bequeathed $1,677,500 to several St. Louis institutions at his death.

The Wohl Foundation was established by Mr. and Mrs. Wohl in 1940 for charitable and educational purposes.

In 1947 the Foundation gave $533,000 to the City of St. Louis to establish two health centers.

In 1948, the Foundation made a gift of $550,000 to Washington University. This was the forerunner of a total of $4,676,000 which Mr. Wohl and the Foundation gave to the university.

One of the notable buildings established by the Foundation in conjunction with Washington University and the Barnes Hospital Group is the 81-bed Wohl Memorial Hospital, named in memory of Lt. David P. Wohl, Jr., who was killed in a bombing raid over Germany in 1944. The hospital also includes extensive research laboratories.

In 1960, the Foundation contributed an additional sum to Washington University to build the Wohl clinic adjacent to the Wohl Hospital. In addition to clinics, the building contains offices, an auditorium, research laboratories, and animal care facilities.

Another interesting facet of the Foundation's grants to Washington University was $1,000,000 to the Endowment Fund to be used for any purpose whatsoever, except for buildings. In 1962, the Washington University Dental School received $300,000 from the Foundation toward the building of a research wing at the School of Dentistry. The Board of Trustees of the university named the research center for Mrs. Wohl.

During Mr. Wohl's lifetime and under the terms of his will, St. Louis University received $590,000 from Mr. Wohl and the Foundation. The university's David P. Wohl Memorial Mental Health Institute received $500,000 from the Foundation, the medical and dental schools received $50,000, and the University proper, $40,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Wohl contributed $500,000 in 1960 to the Jewish Community Center, where the main building is now known as the Carlyn H. Wohl Building. Under the terms of Mr. Wohl's will, the Jewish Center for Aged at Fourteenth and Grand received $500,000 toward the construction of the David P. Wohl Pavilion.

The trustees of the Wohl Foundation are Mrs. Carlyn H. Wohl, Milton Frank, Henry J. Serth and Ethan H. Shepley.

Federation Drive Nears $7,000 Hospital Goal

The 1964 Jewish Federation drive for the hospital was conducted from May 4 to May 15. Co-chairmen for the drive were William Chiles, Raya Richman and Lucie Prinz.

The goal for the hospital was $7,000. At press time $5,800 or 82.8 per cent of the goal had been raised.

Employees, including full-time physicians and research staff members were solicited by 75 team captains. Contributions are being made through payroll deductions, the first of which will be June 19.

Team captains were briefed on their role in the campaign in Steinberg Auditorium, April 30. Rabbi Robert Jacobs, director of Washington University's Hillel House, addressed the group.

The board of directors of the Jewish Hospital endorsed the drive at a meeting in April. In a resolution adopted unanimously the board stated:

"Whereas the Jewish Federation of St. Louis has announced a goal of $1,800,000 for its annual welfare fund campaign which shall begin on May 4, 1964,

"Be it resolved that the Jewish Hospital of St. Louis fully endorses and supports the Jewish Federation in its fund drive and urges that the members of the hospital board vigorously participate in the drive."

The Federation, which includes seven local Jewish health, welfare and educational agencies, contributes substantially to the hospital each year. Last year it gave $222,769 to support teaching, research and patient care programs here.

THE WRISTWATCH WORN BY THE PATIENT HAS BEEN MODIFIED TO SHOW THE NUMBER OF TIMES THE HEART BEATS PER MINUTE. IT IS CONNECTED TO THREE ELECTRODES AND A THREE-FOURTHS POUND AMPLIFIER POWERED BY TWO MINIATURE MERCURY BATTERIES. THE DEVICE CAN BE COMFORTABLY WORN AND USED TO RECORD ACCUMULATED HEARTBEATS OVER PROLONGED PERIODS OF TIME.

Pharmacy Adopts Formulary System

On May 1, the formulary system was put into effect throughout the hospital, Dr. Franz U. Steinberg, chairman of the pharmacy and therapeutics committee reported. The pharmacy may now dispense the generic equivalent of all drugs ordered unless a certain proprietary brand of a drug is specifically requested by the physician.

Medication order forms and prescription blanks have been modified to include the statement, "Authorization is hereby given to dispense under the formulary system unless checked here". A specific proprietary brand of a drug will not be dispensed unless the appropriate box is checked by the physician. If no check mark is placed into this box, the pharmacist is authorized to dispense the non-proprietary equivalent or a proprietary brand different from the one which had been prescribed.

The formulary system will reduce pharmacy inventory and expenses and ultimately lower patient charges.

The hospital formulary system has been organized to follow the "Statement of Guiding Principles" which has been worked out jointly by the American Medical Association, the American Hospital Association, the American Pharmaceutical Association and the American Society of Hospital Pharmacists. Its adoption has been approved by the Jewish Hospital board of directors and the Medical Advisory Committee.

He is co-chairman with Rabbi Julius Nodel of the Jewish National Fund's John F. Kennedy Memorial Peace Forest. He is president of the Urban League and secretary of the Urban Redevelopment Corporation of St. Louis.

Mr. Fleishman is the author of many articles in the field of communications and public relations. He is an avid and expert amateur photographer and a boating enthusiast.

Plasma Study Launched With $45,280 Grant

A three-year $45,280 grant to study plasma restoration in the blood after injury has been awarded Jewish Hospital by the U. S. Public Health Service.

(Plasma is the fluid portion of the blood. Loss of fluid, as commonly occurs in severe injury, leads to shock. Little is known at the present time about where or how fast the body rebuilds its plasma supply.)

Dr. Morton D. Pareira, director of the hospital's department of surgery, is principal investigator. Dr. Kenneth D. Serkes, assistant director of surgery, is co-principal investigator, and Stanley Lang, Ph.D., physiologist in the department of surgery, will participate in the project.

The research will seek the source of plasma restoration following plasma loss shock, hemorrhage and intestinal obstruction. The effects of drugs and other procedures on the rate of plasma restoration will also be studied.

Other research currently being conducted by the same team at the hospital has led to the discovery that plasma aged five weeks or more is more effective than fresh plasma in treating plasma loss shock. The researchers are attempting to isolate and identify the particular substance which appears in the aging process and renders the plasma more protective.

Dr. Wessler to Head Dept. of Medicine

Dr. Stanford Wessler has been named director of the Jewish Hospital department of medicine, effective July 1, 1964, David A. Gee, executive director of the hospital, announced recently.

Dr. Wessler also has been appointed professor of medicine at Washington University School of Medicine.

"With Dr. Wessler's arrival, the association between Washington University School of Medicine and Jewish Hospital will be considerably strengthened," Dr. Edward W. Dempsey, medical school dean, said in commenting on the appointment. The hospital is presently a member of the Washington University Medical School and Associated Hospitals Medical Center.

Dr. Wessler is now director of the Harvard Clinical Research Center for Thrombosis at Beth Israel Hospital, Boston, and assistant professor of medicine at Harvard University School of Medicine.

At Jewish Hospital he succeeds Dr. Michael M. Karl who was acting director of the department of medicine from September 1, 1963, to March 1, and Dr. Burton Shatz, who is acting director until July 1. Dr. Wessler served as Visiting Professor of Medicine at Jewish Hospital last October, participating in the hospital's expanding medical education program.

In his new position, Dr. Wessler will direct teaching and research activities of the Jewish Hospital department of medicine. He will hold professional jurisdiction over ward and private patients and will be responsible for departmental administration.

"We at the medical school feel most fortunate in having Dr. Wessler within the medical center, both for his contributions in research, particularly pertaining to vascular diseases, and for his teaching ability," Dean Dempsey said. "Under his supervision some of our junior medical students will now spend six weeks training in internal medicine at Jewish Hospital. We feel this new association will be mutually beneficial."

Well known for his investigations of blood coagulation and arteriosclerosis, Dr. Wessler is associate editor of Circulation, official journal of the American Heart Association. He has published more than 100 articles.

He served on the board of directors of the Greater Boston Heart Association from 1957 to 1960 and was an American Heart Association Established Investigator from 1954 to 1959. He is a member of the Research Allocations Committee of the Massachusetts Heart Association and the subcommittee on Thrombosis and Hemorrhage of the National Research Council.

His memberships include Alpha Omega Alpha, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Federation for Clinical Research, the American Heart Association, the American Physiological Society, and the American Society for Clinical Investigation. He also belongs to the Massachusetts Medical Society and the New York Academy of Sciences.

A 1938 graduate of Harvard University, he received his M.D. from New York University in 1942. Dr. Wessler is 46 years old and is a native of New York, N. Y.

Dr. Rosenstein Talks On Cause and Cure Of Medical Quackery

Quack: Boastful pretension to medical skill; an ignorant or dishonest practitioner professing skill or knowledge in any matter of which he knows little or nothing. From quack: to make a loud noise and salver: healer — Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary.

The patient sat on a straight wooden chair. Electrodes were connected to her wrists and ankles. The wires led to a panel mounted with switches and blinking lights. A man in a white coat assured her that in just a few minutes the Cosmic Ozone Light Generator would tell her what was wrong with her and would prescribe a sure quick cure.

No, this scene did not take place in the Jewish Hospital. The man in white was not a member of the hospital house staff. The machine was not a new technological development designed to improve medical care.

But encounters like this one do occur daily. They take place in the office of the medical quack.

Dr. Daniel S. Rosenstein, assistant director of the Jewish Hospital department of pathology and a member of the St. Louis County Medical Society's speaker's bureau, has been addressing groups in the community on the subject of "Quacks: Their Cause and Cure."

Attended Congress

Dr. Rosenstein recently attended a congress on medical quackery sponsored by the American Medical Association and the Federal Food and Drug Administration to explore the extent and influence of the quack on the life and economy of the nation. The congress also investigated possible ways of controlling this menace to the health of the country.

"Publicity on quackery" said Dr. Rosenstein "is one of the legitimate ways of combatting it. Inform the citizen about how he is being victimized and he may recognize the quack when he sees him."

Discovering a Quack

The A.M.A., says Dr. Rosenstein, lists six simple rules for spotting the quack:

1. If he uses a special or secret machine or formula he claims can cure disease.
2. If he guarantees a quick cure.
3. If he advertises or uses case histories or testimonials to promote his cure.

4. If he clamors constantly for medical investigation and recognition.

5. If he claims medical men are persecuting him or are afraid of his competition.

6. If he tells you that surgery or x-rays will cause more harm than good.

Lure of Magic

One billion dollars are spent annually in this country on the useless services and devices of quacks, according to government figures. And this is nothing new. Magic and its promises have always had a hold on the human race, Dr. Rosenstein said.

The Egyptian Queen, Ses, in 3400 B.C., rubbed on her bald head a mixture of dog toes, date refuse and asses hooves in futile hope that this would restore her crowning glory.

George Washington employed one Elisha Perkins who claimed to have developed a device for pulling disease out of the body by means of magnets.

Electrical circuits, wires, light bulbs have been in use by charlatans since the early part of this century.

Miracles of Science

Today, Dr. Rosenstein stated, the wonders of electronics, the atomic age and the legitimate breakthroughs in medicine have impressed the public that science can do astounding things. Ordinary common mold makes penicillin, radiation destroys cancer, lasers with fantastic bursts of light pin back detached retinas. From a launching pad of such fantastic reality the quack skyrockets his fantastic deceits.

The greatest danger in quackery, Dr. Rosenstein continued, is that these false cures often keep people from getting competent medical help early enough in a developing disease.

What then, are the "cures" for quacks?

Speakers at the congress on quackery were agreed on these points:

An aware public educated to the dangers in seeking medical care and advice from anyone other than a doctor.

Increased awareness on the part of the public as to the real merit and lack of merit of food fads and patent medicines.

The real advances being made daily in the laboratory; as soon as there is a real cure for a disease, the quack who offers false treatment is out of business.

Legislation to prohibit the labeling and sale of worthless drugs and devices is needed to supplement existing laws. And ways of enforcing these laws are also needed.

"Quackery is big business" said Dr. Rosenstein. "Only when it has been made unprofitable by education, legislation and advances in research will the unethical, unlicensed avaricious practitioner become a thing of the past."

Dr. Probstein Endows Green Scholarship

A $15,000 endowed scholarship fund for graduate nursing education has been established for the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing by Dr. Jacob G. Probstein. The fund will be named the Lillie E. Green Nursing Scholarship.

A bequest of $65,000 for the scholarship and for medical and surgical research at Jewish Hospital was provided for Dr. Probstein, a senior surgeon at the hospital, by the estate of Mrs. Green and her husband, the late Menko E. Green. Mrs. Green died in 1952. Her husband, a St. Louis optical equipment manufacturer, died in 1926.

Mrs. Green was the sister of Nina Lindenbaum, one of the five members of the first graduating class of the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing in 1905.

The scholarship will be awarded to a graduate registered nurse at the annual graduation exercises of the School of Nursing in August.

The Green Scholarship is the second established by Dr. Probstein, who, with his children, last year began the Elsie Koplarski Probstein Fund, in memory of his wife who died in 1959.

DR. JACOB PROBSTEIN PRESENTS EDNA E. PETERSON, DIRECTOR OF NURSING, WITH A CHECK FOR $15,000.

Miss Edna E. Peterson, director of the hospital's department of nursing, commented, "By preparing nurses for supervisory and teaching positions, the Lillie E. Green Nursing Scholarship will help the hospital to better meet its responsibilities to its students, patients and the community."

Nursing

Resigns as Head of Nursing Committee

Mrs. Harry Franc, Jr. has been chairman of the Jewish Hospital's board of director's committee on nursing for the past ten years. Her term of office which ended in March has seen improvements in living accommodations, working conditions, recreational facilities and educational arrangements for the nursing community.

Largely through her efforts the board of directors approved a study of nursing salaries which resulted in salary increases, and a specific salary scale and merit system. A study of nursing functions resulted in reorganization of nursing service and a revision of job description.

Mrs. Franc was able to interest the hospital's women's auxiliary in redecorating the Moses Shoenberg Nursing Residence and in providing furniture for two-hundred nursing students. Auxiliary members also furnished the newly established nursing residence at 4949 Parkview.

Louis and supported the nursing administration in the plans for remodeling of classrooms and the addition of physical facilities in the School of Nursing.

Mrs. Franc and her husband established the annual Franc Awards, honors given to the outstanding freshman nursing student, the student nurse cited by the faculty for outstanding kindness and consideration to patients and the student voted by classmates as outstanding for interest and participation in student activities. The Franc awards will continue to be given each year.

Mrs. Franc is soft-spoken and modest about all of these accomplishments. But she is very proud of having been named an honorary member of the Nursing Alumnae Association on the occasion of the Association's fiftieth anniversary in 1959.

"Please tell everyone how thrilled I am with this honor" she said recently. "I have enjoyed my work on the committee on nursing immensely. My association with

CONGRATULATING MRS. FRANC (LOWER R.) ON HER MANY ACCOMPLISHMENTS AS CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE ON NURSING ARE MRS. HARRY MILTON (LOWER L.), NEW CHAIRMAN, DR. M. NORMAN ORGEL, MEDICAL STAFF PRESIDENT, AND MISS EDNA E. PETERSON, DIRECTOR OF NURSING.

A recreational program for nursing students and graduate nurses employed at Jewish Hospital was begun under Mrs. Franc's auspices. Scholarship grants for nurses both on the student and graduate levels promoted recruitment and the Schwander Assistance Fund for needy nursing students was established during Mrs. Franc's term of office.

Mrs. Franc supported the nursing school faculty in its desire to become affiliated with the Junior College District of St.

Miss Edna Peterson, director of nursing, has been a marvelous experience."

Miss Peterson has only fond words for Mrs. Franc. "When she wants to accomplish something Mrs. Franc goes out and sees that it gets done," Miss Peterson said. "She and her committee have done so much for nursing at Jewish Hospital that her influence will always be felt."

Mrs. Franc will continue to serve on the committee on nursing. The chairmanship has been assumed by Mrs. Harry Milton.

School of Nursing Holds Annual Nursing Career Day

The annual "Nursing Career Day" of the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing was held on Saturday, March 7, at the Moses Shoenberg School of Nursing Building.

About 150 high school sophomores, juniors and seniors from the St. Louis area attended, according to Miss Edna E. Peterson, Jewish Hospital director of nursing.

The day's program included a guided tour of the hospital, nurses' residences, classrooms and laboratories. There were demonstrations of nursing techniques, displays and discussions with students and faculty members concerning opportunities for careers in nursing. A tea for all participants concluded the day's activities.

Dr. Dickinson Richards:

Visiting Professor States His Views

Nobel Laureate Dr. Dickinson W. Richards, Visiting Professor of Medicine at Jewish Hospital during February, is a modest man. He'd rather talk about the future of medical education, health care for the aged and research in the field of cardio-pulmonary disease than his many accomplishments in these areas.

Dr. Richards received the Nobel Prize in 1956 for his work in cardio-pulmonary physiology.

"The next decade in cardio-pulmonary research will—at least I hope that it will — be concerned more with the origins and causes of chronic lung and heart disease", Dr. Richards said. "We need more work in biochemistry, anatomy and experimental pathology to discover the origins of such diseases as bronchitis, emphysema and fibrosis of the lung as well as the degenerative diseases of the heart."

Dr. Richards was one of the thirty-six physicians who called on the late President Kennedy two years ago to support the King-Anderson bill and has been a member of a twelve-man committee named by Senator Javits in 1962 to study health care for the aged.

Explains King-Anderson Bill

In its basic principle, Dr. Richards explained it is a good thing for people to provide for old age care on an insurance basis paid for during their working years. Private insurance has not been able to avoid the practice of "adverse selection" excluding from insurance older persons who are poor risks. In this way many old people who really need the care can't get it.

The National Committee believes that a combination of private insurance, to cover other medical costs, and government insurance to help take care of hospital expenses, would help solve this problem. Many young doctors seem to be coming around to supporting this position. Dr. Richards added that he thought that there was a reasonable chance that the congress would pass a "emdicare" bill. But "that's a political, not a medical, matter" he said.

Dr. Richards is emeritus professor of medicine at the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons and former director of the First Medical Division of Bellevue Hospital in New York.

Six-year Medical School

Asked his opinion of the six year medical school Dr. Richards replied, "It certainly speeds up the educational process, but I think it would be undesirable to sacrifice the four year liberal arts background for those who want and are able to take it."

The costs of medical education, Dr. Richards thinks, are much too high in this country. "Young medical people emerge from British and European medical schools perhaps with no more money in their pockets than do our young doctors, but they certainly have fewer debts."

Changes in Medicine

In his many years in the medical profession Dr. Richards has been witness to many changes in techniques and attitudes.

What about "computer medicine?"

"The danger is," Dr. Richards said, "that the more gadgets we have the more liable we are to depend on them too heavily. We must protect ourselves from letting the laboratory become our master rather than our servant."

Jewish Hospital "Excellent"

About Jewish Hospital, where he conducted a teaching program during his stay, Dr. Richards was enthusiastic.

He said he found it to be a most active and interesting institution, excellent both in work and care. The most hopeful sign Dr. Richards sees for the future of the hospital is its closer affiliation with the Washington University School of Medicine.

VISITING PROFESSOR DR. DICKINSON W. RICHARDS (THIRD FROM L.) CHATS WITH JEWISH HOSPITAL STAFF MEMBERS DURING HIS RECENT VISIT HERE. DR. RICHARDS, A NOBEL PRIZE WINNER, WAS ONE OF THE EMINENT MEDICAL MEN WHO CAME TO THE HOSPITAL THIS YEAR TO PARTICIPATE IN THE INSTRUCTION OF INTERNS AND RESIDENTS.

Dr. R. S. Weiss Dies

Dr. Richard S. Weiss, 78, nationally known dermatologist and a member of the hospital staff since 1921, died March 27 of heart disease.

He was a former president of the American Dermatological Association, former president of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association, and professor emeritus of dermatology of the Washington University medical school.

He was head of the department of dermatology at Jewish Hospital from 1946 to 1951.

For his efforts in the field of social hygiene education, he was made an honorary life member of the American Social Hygiene Association in 1948. He lectured and authored many articles on the cost of venereal disease to business and society, and was considered a national authority on the subject.

In 1962 in Washington, D. C., he served as honorary vice president of the Twelfth International Congress of Dermatology.

He was a 1909 graduate of Washington University School of Medicine.

Survivors include two sons, Richard M. and Jacob L. of St. Louis; a daughter, Mrs. Margarete Littman of Oak Park, Mich., and seven grandchildren. Mrs. Weiss died three years ago.

SHOWN AT RIGHT, WITH PSYCHOLOGIST LOIS FRANKLIN, A YOUNG PATIENT UTILIZES THE FACILITIES OF THIS AREA, AN IMPORTANT PART OF THE TREATMENT OFFERED BY THE DEPARTMENT.

Hepner Appointment

James O. Hepner was appointed assistant director of the hospital beginning March 1, 1964.

Hepner, 31, received his Ph.D. degree in hospital and health administration in February from the University of Iowa, Iowa City, where he also completed undergraduate studies. He holds a master's degree in hospital administration from Washington University School of Medicine.

At Jewish Hospital he was a resident in hospital administration from May, 1958, to June, 1959, an administrative assistant from June, 1959, to July, 1961, and then assistant director until his return to college in January, 1962.

As assistant director, he is responsible for the out-patient clinic, emergency rooms, employee health service, social work, medical records and home care departments. He also handles the heart station, electroencephalography, cardiopulmonary lab, audiology, rehabilitation and certain administrative activities of the laboratories, divisions of adult and child psychiatry, division of rehabilitation and department of radiology.

Hepner was on active duty with the Marine Corps from 1956 to 1958 and is a captain in the Marine Corps Reserve. He is married.

Miss Boulton Retires After 38 Years As Head of Medical Record Department

MEMBERS OF THE MEDICAL RECORD DEPARTMENT STAFF BID MISS BOULTON (CENTER) FAREWELL AT A PARTY IN STEINBERG AUDITORIUM.

Marjorie Boulton began her career at Jewish Hospital at the top of a ladder in a "little bit of a room" on the first floor. Medical records, in 1926, Miss Boulton's first year here, were bound in loose-leaf binders and stored on high shelves. "You just never knew when you had to climb a ladder to get down a volume weighing 25 or even 50 pounds," she explained.

In March Miss Boulton retired as head of the medical record department. During her 38 years at the hospital she witnessed enormous changes in her field and in the hospital itself. When she came here, medical records were sparse and consisted mostly of temperature sheets and possibly a note or two by an attending physician, she recalled.

—Over the years, the staff has increased from 2 to 16.

—Micro-film and data processing machines have in part replaced the ladder and the loose-leaf binder.

—Operating room notes, consultation notes and discharge summaries may be dictated into recording machines via telephones.

—Compiling statistics is an increasingly important task.

Started 216

One of Miss Boulton's contributions to the hospital was 216. During World War II she and the late Dr. Sam Grey, a member of the medical staff, started a newsletter for staff members in the armed services. They called the publication 216 S.K. after the hospital's address on South Kingshighway. Hospital news was presented in a column called "Trivia."

Through the years Miss Boulton has worked to gain recognition for persons in her field. She was one of the early officers of the American Association of Medical Record Librarians in its early "floundering days" in the thirties. She also served as president of the Midwestern Association of Medical Record Librarians.

Native of East Orange, N. J.

Miss Boulton came to St. Louis from East Orange, New Jersey, by way of Higganum, Connecticut, and Toronto, Canada, where she attended boarding school. Her family moved to St. Louis which was her mother's home town and after a year in the records library at Barnes, Miss Boulton came to the Jewish Hospital, which had just moved to its present location on Kingshighway.

As to the future: Miss Boulton looks forward with "unconcealed joy" to getting back to her beloved garden. "Flowers?" we asked. "Flowers, trees, vegetables, anything that grows," said Miss Boulton. "And I am going to turn into a housekeeper for the first time in my life."

In addition Miss Boulton plans to "keep an active interest" in her field by taking some type of part-time employment.

New Day for Payday Week-End Utilization Program Begins

Every other Friday is payday for full-time Jewish Hospital employees as of January 17, 1964. The paychecks are issued twenty-six times a year now instead of twenty-four times as in the past. Salaries are figured on an hourly rate rather than on a monthly rate.

Employees found that even the paychecks are different. The new checks show the last name and first two initials of the employee's name plus social security, department and employee numbers. The number of hours worked and deductions such as social security, Blue Cross and time off are itemized on the check stub.

A data processing machine does the complicated job of figuring out the new paychecks.

Raymond Highfill, chief accountant for the hospital, said that a bi-weekly schedule is standard practice both in industries and in many other institutions.

The change in the payroll schedule resulted from an employee suggestion.

Week-End Utilization Program Begins

A program to increase week-end bed utilization began May 1, 1964. The program will reduce the waiting period and provide better use of existing facilities by enabling more patients to be admitted to the hospital.

Medical staff members may use week-ends to admit patients needing medical and surgical diagnostic work-ups or minor surgery.

Personnel in areas such as the operating department, radiology and laboratories have been increased to accommodate the extra patient load.

An estimated 1000 to 1400 extra patient days of care annually will be provided under the new system.

The idea of increasing week-end utilization was proposed by a committee of the voluntary medical staff in 1961. The new program has been reviewed and approved by the Medical Advisory Committee. A six-month evaluation will be made.

THE THIRD WEEK IN JANUARY WAS A BUSY ONE FOR THE NURSERY, WITH THE BIRTH OF TRIPLETS AND TWO SETS OF TWINS. THE TRIPLETS, UNDER THE CAREFUL SUPERVISION OF ASSISTANT HEAD NURSE MAXINE RODABAUGH, WERE THE THIRD SET ON RECORD AT THE HOSPITAL IN THE LAST 17 YEARS. TRIPLETS OCCUR IN ABOUT ONE OUT OF EVERY 10,000 BIRTHS.

THAT EXTRA SOMETHING HAS BEEN ADDED TO THE MENU OF JEWISH HOSPITAL'S PATIENTS. WINE - RED WITH MEAT AND WHITE WITH FISH OR FOWL - IS NOW SERVED AT LUNCH AND DINNER TO THOSE ON REGULAR DIETS. BO AXELROD, FOOD SERVICES DIRECTOR, HAS SELECTED TWO EXCELLENT DOMESTIC WINES AFTER MAKING A TASTING SURVEY OF VINTAGES FROM AROUND THE WORLD. WINE HAS NO NUTRITIVE VALUE BUT IT DOES PROVIDE A CERTAIN MILD SENSE OF WELL BEING, MAKING PATIENTS MORE TOLERANT OF NECESSARY HOSPITAL PROCEDURES.

Information for Patients:

Handbook, Brochures, Fact Cards, Explain Procedures, Allay Fears

With people coming in at all hours of the night to listen to his heart and take his blood pressure, and someone shoving a pill in his mouth just about every time he opens it or wheeling him down to the x-ray department in a gown that barely reaches his knees, Mr. Patient might almost begin to feel he's just a bunch of aches and pains, not really a person at all.

To let him know that his individual feelings are a major concern to everyone at Jewish Hospital, a special handbook and other printed items have been developed.

Explaining the reasons for the rules and procedures, the how and why of hospital activity which might seem strange to Mr. Patient, these printed materials constitute a significant part of the total patient relations program.

Copies of all items described here may be obtained by writing or calling the Public and Patient Relations Department at the hospital, 216 S. Kingshighway, St. Louis, Mo. 63110, FO 7-8080, Sta. 492 or 495.

Patients' Handbook: Given to every patient when he first arrives at the hospital, this 20-page handbook explains procedures for operations, medications and examinations and contains information about meals, visitors, bills, and special services such as beauticians and clergymen. The book tells patients, "You are the primary reason why Jewish Hospital exists. Everything done at this hospital is aimed towards providing the best possible care for you."

Notes for New Mothers: This book was designed to meet the special needs and interests of the 2500 women each year who have their babies at Jewish Hospital. It explains such items as obtaining birth certificates or baby's first picture and announces instruction classes on feeding and bathing the baby. It also contains photographs of daily activities on the maternity division.

216: The national award-winning hospital newspaper, 216 gives patients a behind-the-scenes view of the people and activities aimed at assuring them a comfortable stay.

Pre-admission Form: This form is sent to every patient whose admission to Jewish Hospital is scheduled a few days in advance. It includes advice on when to arrive, what to bring, visiting hours, insurance and shops. It also contains an information sheet for the patient to fill out and mail back so as to speed up admission procedure.

Fact Card: A wallet-size calendar and reference sheet of facts about Jewish Hospital, this card provides answers to the many questions patients ask. Sample question: How many surgical operations each day? Answer: 33 in 13 operating rooms.

Telephone and Meal Cards: These cards make it easy for patients to request a private phone or a meal for a visitor. Designed in standard IBM-card size, these forms also help the hospital to maintain accurate, up-to-date records.

Diet Cards: For patients on any of the hospital's 22 special diets, these cards provide a cheerful explanation of "doctor's orders" and hopefully make a restricted diet at least a little more appetizing.

Meal Tray Cards: Cards are placed on patient meal trays to commemorate holidays, announce religious services and patient parties and describe hospital services.

Departmental Brochures: Booklets have been designed to explain activities of the many different departments at Jewish Hospital. They contain information about the facilities, staff, treatment and services available.

Patient Comment Form: Patients are encouraged to mark their likes, and if need be, their dislikes, about their hospital stay on this form. Every letter is answered, every suggestion studied. The most typical comment: "It was a pleasure to be a patient in your hospital. Everyone was so friendly and helpful."

Good Suggestions Bring Cash, Improve the Hospital

Seven Jewish Hospital employees were awarded cash prizes by the Suggestion Committee this month for ideas which will add to the safety or convenience of persons working in or visiting the hospital.

Eldon Songer of housekeeping received $10.00 for suggesting that mirrors, similar to those installed recently on the 2-South nursing station, be put up in corridor walls at the end of the receiving ramp to protect persons approaching when heavy trucks are being moved down the ramp.

Reminders not to throw paper towels into hoppers and toilets will be posted at the suggestion of Ronnie Scheper of maintenance, who will receive $10.00 for his idea.

Barbara Tafel in the executive offices thought it would save secretarial time if a box labeled "Returned Your Call" would be added to the telephone message pads. The committee agreed and awarded her $5.00.

Richard Renner in radiology noticed that many visitors had trouble finding rooms on the second floor. He suggested that a boldly lettered sign be installed on the wall opposite the elevator in the x-ray department. Mr. Renner was awarded $5.00 for this suggestion.

"No Smoking" signs will soon be installed on all elevators at the suggestion of Jean Berthelote of anesthesiology. Miss Berthelote felt that smoking on an elevator crowded with visitors, employees and patients could constitute a health hazard. She received $5.00 for her suggestion.

The "Caution Open Slowly" sign which has been affixed to the door leading from the first floor to the ground floor near the laboratories is the result of an idea presented by Herman Litwak of home care.

This precaution protects personnel coming up the steps. A $5.00 award went to Mr. Litwak for his idea.

Because many people confuse the first floor with the second, a system of signs near the first floor laboratories will be installed which will assist people in finding their way to the second floor x-ray departments. For this helpful suggestion Yvonne

Williams in medicine research won $5.00.

William H. Chiles, chairman of the suggestion committee expressed delight at the number of suggestions presented recently and special gratification at the large number of award winners.

"We have five suggestion boxes in the hospital just waiting to be filled with more usable ideas, he said.

Tells of Struggle to Relearn Speech

"I can't say what I mean." That's a common expression, but most of us manage to adequately translate our thoughts into words, to use words as symbols of ideas. Not so the person with aphasia. In him this precious ability is lost or impaired.

With speech therapy and great personal effort, the patient with aphasia possibly can regain some language skills.

The following account of the struggle to learn to talk again was written by a 57 year old aphasic who had suffered two strokes. A former high school English teacher, the author spent two months polishing this autobiographical sketch. She worked under the direction of a speech clinician in the hospital's division of audiology and speech pathology.

The article was condensed for publication in 216, but the author's style was left unchanged. The few errors of syntax and spelling are related to the language disturbances of aphasia. — Ed.

Two and a half years ago I had my first stroke.

This came to me as a shock because I was unaware of it as I was working in my husband's store and had no thoughts that this was a stroke. And as the day went on I suddenly had a pain in my left arm which was excruciating and I took an aspirin which relieved it some. I waited until the store was closed and my husband came after me. Just as I got in the car my left leg fell asleep, so to speak, and apparently the circulation had completely stopped on my left side. Before we got home I asked my husband to take me to the hospital because by then I thought sure I had a heart attack. My husband drove me to the hospital and a doctor said I had a stroke. My doctor was called to verify it and I was in the hospital for a month.

I was always active business-wise, socially and in my home and this diagnosis crushed me to the pulp and I cried a river. However I knew this was not for me because I wanted to get well.

I was then taken to physical therapy because I could not walk and with all that was done for me and determined as I was I was gradually making progress.

In therapy I was taught to walk by the use of bars with a belt around my waist which the therapist had to hang on to. After several weeks of that, I was taught to walk with a cane. Up to this point I was in a wheel chair which was disgusting to me because I was determined to walk and I did walk. Today I walk only with a slight limp and I probably will have to live with it so I am not making an issue of it.

"Too Much Time to Think"

I also took occupational therapy while I was in the hospital. My doctor said I would have too much time to think. Occupational therapy would help my morale. I made two dolls for my grandchildren, pot holders and many other items and also baked a cake. I was proud of doing these things when I was paralyzed and sitting in a wheel chair and it gave me great hope for the future.

My prayers were answered because I knew that God would not forsake me if I would not forsake Him. He gave us a brain to use because He can't do it all.

As time went on, again I was active in the store, active socially and I felt as though nothing happened in my life to impair me and I have always said "mind over matter" which is a great help.

Has Second Stroke

On November 22, 1963, I had a second stroke which affected my speech, reading and writing.

I could understand but I couldn't answer. This was a second phase of my life because it was unlike my first stroke. I knew what I wanted to say but couldn't talk and writing was out of the question so I motioned for things that I wanted.

This went on for two solid weeks and finally words came out but I couldn't make sentences. I was so helpless because I couldn't make my own family understand me, who in my mind I thought could help me. They tried but couldn't do anything about it. I did feel sorry for my family because they felt sorry for me and yet there was nothing I could do about it except get well.

Self-Help Needed

But as the saying goes, this is a fast thinking world which have no time and patience for us because they have no idea what the feelings and thoughts of people with aphasia are like. This is why we have to help ourselves.

My doctor ordered television in the room so I would not be excommunicated from the world and this helped me out greatly because I understood and repeated words which were on the screen. At this point I was taken to speech therapy. The therapist was so kind and thoughtful of me and had patience all the way. I felt that I was going back to Kindergarten because I was shown objects that I had known all my life and was asked to name them. I pointed to objects to retain them in my mind. I also had short sentences which I would follow in reading and writing. It helped me a lot but this also was demoralizing to me because I felt that I knew more and just couldn't express it.

According to my way of thinking this wasn't fast enough for me. My therapist and my doctors thought I was doing fine and making good progress but I was still dissatisfied because I wanted to be what I was before I became ill.

Determined to Talk

I was slow in speaking and knew what I wanted to say but could not respond with speech. I immediately asked my family and friends to have patience with me until I got through speaking because I would never learn if they helped me. I was very determined to talk.

I had so many things crush me to the quick because friends call to see me and they figured I could not be in the picture because they talked about world events, gossip if you please, politicians and so on and talked over my head as though I didn't understand but truthfully I did because television was my source in getting the news but they thought I didn't understand because I was too sick and when I talked I was drowned out of what I wanted to say. In time it didn't hurt me a bit because I asked them to bear with me and that did kind of stop them.

My grandchildren who are so near and dear to me couldn't accept the limp and cane which I use and they told me I talk like a foreigner.

Children can be cruel, which they don't mean to be, but we do find the truth from them and they shied away from me.

This is the battle we aphasia patients have to battle before we are accepted in social life.

However, I made a joke of it and asked my grandchildren to teach me because they were going to school and we made a game of it so now they are accepting me as I was before.

Adjusting to Changes

Our home and business life were also changed.

My husband and I have been in business for 38 years and now I cannot be as active as I was. I do help out occasionally but this is hard for my husband to accept. He treats me very kindly but he must adjust himself to facts and I am in hopes in time this will happen. He is very hurt by my illness because he loves me but he must accept facts. This of course has been a difficult adjustment for me because of him.

I am home most of the time and I like it because I have made up my mind to like it. I have fun cooking, baking and shopping. However, I must have help to clean my house because I cannot do this as yet.

I am writing this theme to help others who are afflicted with aphasia and to help families who do not understand our problems and to nurses who care for our kind.

However, I am very happy that I am able to write this theme as it is my pleasure and privilege to help others.

Grant Received To Study, Treat Speech and Hearing Disorders

A five-year $140,300 grant to study and treat speech and hearing disorders has been awarded to the hospital by the U. S. Public Health Service. The amount for the first year is $40,300.

Dr. Robert Goldstein, director of the division of audiology and speech pathology, is project director. Dr. Ben H. Senturia, director of the hospital's department of otolaryngology, is associate project director.

The program will serve the three million persons living within a 150 mile radius of Jewish Hospital. Of this population, some 51,000 persons are estimated to need diagnostic and therapeutic services for hearing problems and 60,000 for speech disorders.

Complete Hearing and Speech Services

The grant enables Jewish Hospital to provide complete hearing and speech services. The hospital base assures the patient with hearing and speech disorders of the availability of appropriate ancillary services in such departments as ear, nose and throat, medicine, surgery, psychiatry, social work and rehabilitation.

As a major part of the program, Jewish Hospital will work with local public and private health agencies and institutions to establish out-of-hospital services for patients who can not be brought to the hospital for diagnosis and treatment. In certain cases, patients will be cared for in their homes.

Findings of hearing and speech research conducted at the hospital and other institutions will be applied. The hospital's teaching facilities will be made available to local educational institutions providing training in audiology and speech pathology.

Plans include establishment of a diagnostic nursery, where two to four year old children can be observed intensively for several weeks by speech therapists, audiologists, clinical psychologists and social workers.

Hearing Defects of Young Children Subject of Research

A study of hearing disorders in young children will be conducted at Jewish Hospital under a five-year, $172,401 grant from the United States Public Health Service, it was announced recently. The amount for the first year is $33,522.

Dr. Robert Goldstein, director of the division of audiology and speech pathology, is principal investigator.

An electronic computer and other special electronic equipment will be used in the project to measure a child's hearing and give indications of possible causes of hearing impairments.

The computer will analyze changes in brain waves or EEG (electroencephalogram) in response to sound. Patterns of responses will be studied and determinations will be made of the weakest sound capable of bringing about a response. The children will also be studied thoroughly in other kinds of hearing tests. Their psychological and educational development will be followed over a long period of time. In this way the true nature of the child's hearing problem will be related to the responses as noted by the computer, Dr. Goldstein said.

The project will be conducted in conjunction with other hospital departments, including ear, nose and throat, medicine, surgery, anesthesiology, psychiatry, social work and rehabilitation.

Special electronic techniques are necessary for measuring the hearing of children too young to indicate to a tester when they hear sounds. The electric tests give indirect evidence that a child hears. Part of the research plan is to refine the special tests and to develop new tests so that they will be able to help to determine whether it is a lack of hearing or some other kind of problem — physical or psychological — that is keeping a child from developing normal speech or understanding of speech.

The researchers expect the results of their studies to yield new information about the way the brain as well as the ear functions in hearing.

Rehab Counselors

A seminar for vocational rehabilitation counselors on rehabilitation medicine and home care was held on March 19 and 20, 1964, at the hospital. The program was under the auspices of the hospital's Training Center for Coordinated Home Care and Other Out-of-Hospital Health Services, in cooperation with the hospital's departments of rehabilitation and home care.

The seminar was designed to present the latest concepts in rehabilitation medicine and vocational potentials to persons who give vocational counseling to the physically handicapped.

Dr. David Littauer, executive director, Cedars-Sinai Hospitals, Los Angeles, spoke on "Chronic Illness and Physical Disability: Organization and Financing of Care from Hospital to Home".

Robert L. Williams, assistant chief of the psychological service, Veterans Administration Hospital of St. Louis, discussed "Psychology and Sociological Aspects of Disability".

Samuel Bernstein, executive director, Jewish Employment and Vocational Service, St. Louis, spoke on "The Sheltered Workshop and Home Industry".

Other speakers, all on the staff of Jewish Hospital, and their subjects included: Dr. Franz U. Steinberg, director, department of rehabilitation, and project director of the training center, "Rehabilitation of Patients with Spinal Cord Injuries", Dr. Elizabeth A. Stoddard, associate physician, department of rehabilitation, "Potentials of the Hemiplegic Patient".

Dr. Marvin Mishkin, division of orthopedic surgery, "Rehabilitation of Orthopedic Conditions", Dr. Herbert Zimmerman, director of the cardiopulmonary laboratory, "The Evaluation of the Patient with Heart Disease", David S. Levine, speech and hearing therapist, division of audiology and speech pathology, "Vocational Potential of Persons with Disorders of Communication".

Dr. Robert S. Karsh, division of internal medicine, "The Future of the Arthritic for Employment", Dr. Jerome J. Gilden, division of orthopedic surgery, "The Evaluation and Management of the Amputee", Robert H. Hickok, coordinator, department of rehabilitation, "The Role of Physical Therapy in Rehabilitation".

Elizabeth Moore-Jones, supervisor, section of occupational therapy, "The Function of Occupational Therapy in Prevocational Planning" and Betty Ann Dubansky, department of social work, "The Services of the Social Worker in Rehabilitation and Home Care".

A panel discussion on "Recent Trends in Rehabilitation" by representatives of Missouri and Illinois rehabilitation departments and the Jewish Hospital rehabilitation and home care teams concluded the seminar.

Emergency Room:

Always Open For Business as Usual

Hollywood and television have given us all a glimpse into the emergency room of the modern hospital. We see it as a busy place, geared for swift action in response to sudden injury or illness. Doctors draped in stethoscopes, nurses crisply efficient, run to meet the stretcher. In split seconds the team springs into action to save another life. Just part of the routine of the job.

In real life, of course, things are not quite like that. Sometimes it is a matter of quick action and life saving technique. But during the twenty-four hours of a day, the Jewish Hospital emergency room also performs a variety of services of a less dramatic, but no less important nature.

Jewish Hospital's emergency rooms see approximately 1200 patients each month. The department is staffed around the clock with professional medical and nursing personnel.

In addition to taking care of those

Dr. Michael Somogyi Receives Van Slyke Award for Work in Clinical Chemistry

In the month of March in the year 1883 a child was born in the little town of Pike, New York. In the same month of that year a child was born in a little Hungarian village. Last month these two "children", now distinguished men of science, met in New York.

The American-born Donald Van Slyke presented to the Hungarian-born Michael Somogyi the medallion and scroll known as the Donald Van Slyke Award in clinical chemistry. The citation "was bestowed upon him in grateful appreciation by fellow members of his profession:

"For outstanding scientific contributions in the field of clinical chemistry.

"For helping to develop clinical chemistry as a major discipline in medical science.

"For his personal integrity and devotion to human welfare."

Delivered Lecture

After accepting the award, Dr. Somogyi delivered the annual Van Slyke lecture; the subject was "Landmarks in the Search for the Cause of Human Diabetes".

Dr. Michael Somogyi has been at Jewish Hospital for 38 years. During his long career he has received many awards and honors. He is an honorary member of the gastroenterological society of Mexico. He was awarded the Ernst Bischoff Award from the National Clinical Chemistry Society in 1953. He has a degree in chemical engineering and a Ph.D. in biochemistry from the University of Budapest.

But the medals and degrees he has received are not displayed in his office on the ground floor of the hospital. The walls are bare except for a small reproduction of a painting of the National Academy of Science in Budapest and a cartoon clipped from the New Yorker which shows a laboratory replete with elaborate scientific instruments and full of men in white coats and a plumber who had to come to fix a leaky faucet.

"See that plumber?" said Dr. Somogyi. "I am that plumber, come to shut off a faucet that injects insulin into diabetics who do not need it."

Problem of Overeating

In an address to the St. Louis Medical Society, in association with Dr. Jerome E. Cook, Dr. Somogyi demonstrated as early as 1936 that adult diabetics produce as much insulin as healthy persons, and even more. The root of the trouble in the diabetic is accumulation of excess fat in the liver — due to overeating — a condition which raises a barrier to the action of insulin, Dr. Somogyi said.

This handicap can be fully removed by an appropriate dietary regimen, and the result is restoration of normal metabolism, he explained. All symptoms and signs of diabetes — too high blood sugar (hyperglycemia) and sugar in the urine — disappear without medication of insulin or blood-sugar-depressing oral drugs.

This treatment hews to the root, to the cause of the disease, instead of attempting merely to combat its symptoms. It is successful — with very few exceptions — in all adult diabetics, he said.

Insulin-Reactions

Treatment with insulin of such patients overshoots the goal; it depresses the blood sugar below the normal level (hypoglycemia) and causes so-called insulin reactions. In three articles published in 1959 in the American Journal of Medicine, Dr. Somogyi described his studies which demonstrated that any treatment which produces hypoglycemia causes a rebound of the blood sugar to excessive hyperglycemic levels ("hypoglycemia begets hyperglycemia") and thus makes the diabetic state more severe instead of ameliorating it.

This discovery attracted worldwide attention and came to be referred to as "the Somogyi effect". It has set off a revision and radical modification of the conventional use of insulin.

"Somogyi Method"

Look up Somogyi in any medical dictionary and you will find, in addition to the usual biographical data, a reference to the "Somogyi unit" and the "Somogyi method" for the measurement of the enzyme amylase in blood and other biological materials. This method, developed by Dr. Somogyi in the laboratory of the Jewish Hospital, has been the standard diagnostic method in general use throughout the world since the 1930's.

Another standard laboratory method elaborated by Dr. Somogyi in the hospital's laboratory is the precise determination of "true sugar" in blood and other biological media. This method has been in widespread use since 1928.

While still on the faculty of Washington University in 1922, Dr. Somogyi took part in devising a method for the preparation of insulin, a method which is the basis of the present day commercial manufacture of the drug.

Was Visiting Professor

During the first three months of this year, Dr. Somogyi was visiting professor of biochemistry in the department of medicine at the University of Alabama in Birmingham.

In addition to experimental studies, Dr. Somogyi has collaborated in the rehabilitation of unmanageable, (brittle) diabetics, a procedure based on avoidance of hypoglycemic states.

Dr. Somogyi has six children, lives in the country-side, surrounded by trees he himself planted. He is active in his garden, when he is not at his desk in the hospital, where, he is currently engaged mainly in arranging for publications.

Disposables: A Hospital Revolution

Our incinerators are working overtime.

The extra heavy load is due to the hundreds of "disposables" in use every day in the hospital. Fifty percent of all items bought by Loald Hinderleider, purchasing agent for the hospital, are used once and then thrown away.

A RANDOM SAMPLING OF DISPOSABLES

Four hundred disposable syringes are used here every day, totaling 245,000 for the year. The additional 145,000 needles bought to supplement those attached to the syringes and used only once insure each patient that it really "only hurts a little bit."

Disposable plastic tubing is used whenever blood or other fluid is administered through the veins. All blood is collected or transfused through plastic tubing, and even the heart-lung machine has disposable tubes.

Plastic is used to make culture dishes, medication cups, bags in which to store blood and disposable laundry bags to enclose contaminated linen from the isolation areas — all designed to be thrown away after a single use.

Paper Plates on Isolation

Paper is used for Passover plates and for serving food to isolation patients. Disposable bed packs are made of paper although polyethylene is becoming less expensive and hence is being considered for use by the Professional Products Committee.

This committee, which tests and passes on any new disposable product, consists of Dr. Kenneth Serkes, chairman, Dr. William Berman, Mr. Hinderleider, Virginia Reisinger, R.N., Phillip Bassin, Dr. Paul Friedman, Dr. Warren Jacobsohn, and Nadean Wright, R. N.

"Disposing of disposables is just one of the problems we have to deal with," said Hinderleider. "Storing them is another."

The mountains of disposables can not be stored in the hospital itself. Most are stored in transit. Mr. Hinderleider places small standing orders for most disposable items and estimates how many he will need during a certain period of time. With careful figuring, the replacements will be on a truck on their way to the hospital just as the present supply is being used up. In this way the truck and the warehouse store the supplies.

Disposables have been used in large quantities in hospitals for the last ten or fifteen years, Mr. Hinderleider said.

New Techniques Often Needed

New techniques often need to be developed to handle disposable items, he said. Plastic is much lighter than glass, for instance, and personnel accustomed to glass items had to adjust themselves to this fact.

Mr. Hinderleider mentioned that the disposable face masks which are used in the Jewish Hospital operating rooms and nursery were field-tested here by the 3M Company three years ago, before they were put on the market. It was through suggestions from hospital personnel that rubber bands replaced the string ties originally provided with the masks and that a softer metal strip was placed at the top of the mask.

Disposables Mean Better Patient Care

Disposables have created a revolution in hospitals. But their biggest boon has been to the patients, who can be assured that hypodermic syringes are sterile and sharp, that all tubing is perfectly free from contamination. At Jewish Hospital patient safety is the first consideration in selecting new disposable items. The combination of safety with convenience has made disposables commonplace and valuable adjuncts to patient care.

Mrs. Evelyn Whitlock is the new acting director of the medical records department.

Mrs. Whitlock had been assistant records librarian since 1955 when she came to Jewish Hospital from Barnes Hospital, where she held the same position. She succeeds Miss Marjorie Boulton who retired March 1.

She attended St. Louis University and received her certification as a registered record librarian from Homer G. Phillips School of Medical Record Library Science in 1951. She is at present working for her Bachelor of Science degree at Washington University.

In her "spare time" Mrs. Whitlock enjoys reading and writing. She reads anything from "Dostoevsky to Wouk" and has published several articles in the journals of her field.

Mrs. Whitlock's husband is a research biochemist at Washington University. They have four children, three boys and a girl, aged two to nine years.
